

One-on-One Mentorship Workshop

What is the Idea?

I am offering one-on-one mentorship sessions weekly per month. This means that I'll be working with you and your work alone through Zoom and Discord (or e-mail if it's more convenient for you). The goal of this is to teach in a way that is more personalized for you and to create a positive learning environment.

How it works

When you sign up for one month, you will have the option of selecting your preferred time and dates with me through e-mail. You will need to send me a short description of what you want to focus on, and your goals as an illustrator (i.e. character designs, children's books, environments, etc.). I will also need a few examples of your work if you have any. When I have this information through the application section of my website, I will e-mail you about times & dates and then I will be able to create a brief which you will receive before our first meeting through e-mail or Discord. The information will be included with the brief.

On our first meeting, I will go into detail about the project. It will be personalized to your needs and I will help you with the whole process. Depending on how fast you work, we may be able to fit more briefs during the month.

The tutoring includes:

Helping you build and construct your drawings through critique and feedback.

I will:

- Be checking your values, light and shadows, proportions, overall composition and more.
- Provide draw-overs if needed.
- Teach you how to format your piece so that it is perfect for printing high quality images.
- Give you demos as well when we do our weekly Zoom meetings. This is also where the draw-overs will happen.
- Essentially push what you have now to the next level.

Our meetings will be once a week for 45 minutes to 1 hour. However, we will be in contact through Discord or e-mail throughout the week for written feedback also. The point of the project brief is to help you learn how to be professional with your work, and to also learn one extra skill at the end of each brief.

What Are the Possible Briefs?

Depending on your skill level, pace and interest, here is a list of possible projects you may be assigned or can choose from, if preferred.

- A Short Picture Book. (for those wanting to get into picture books or even graphic novels) You will learn about formatting, different compositions for pages, how to pick the right text to illustrate and more. (This one is for 3+ months only) For the same kind of work but shorter (1 month) I will give you the Cover Page brief as it teaches almost the same things as this brief.
- A Cover Page. (For any interest and skill level) You will learn about formatting, and how to create a cover page for your story or artwork with proper text/calligraphy as well as composition, rendering and so forth.
- A Line-Up of Characters. (For those wanting to get into character designs). Here we will learn how to create a story for these characters to live in, we will learn about shape design, language, and rotations. The final result will be a line up for each character.
- A Perfect Illustration! (For those who want something lighter to start with) This brief will include a character or creature of your choosing, integrated into an environment suited for them. This will challenge you to make an illustration work compositionally and push towards storytelling/narrative. This is a more open brief.

You have the option to work in either digital or traditional media for these projects. Work with what's comfortable for you. I will also provide my main brush pack in your package if you need some brushes!

The Final Session

At the end of your last session, we should be done the project and you will have something ready for your portfolio and something to be proud of. Challenging yourself is always important, so I believe you should be rewarded for trying your best. As mentioned above, the hope for these one-on-ones is to walk away with a new skill and something that you're also proud of.
